

Elderflower Facial Scrub

Exfoliation doesn't need to be aggressive to be effective; it needs to be thoughtful. We created our Elderflower Scrub for skin that benefits from gentle renewal without disruption. By choosing a dry, activatable format, we allow each use to be customized, offering controlled exfoliation that helps refresh the skin while respecting its natural balance.

We selected dried elderflowers for their long history in gentle skincare traditions. Elderflowers are valued not for harsh action, but for the calming experience they bring to the skin. Their delicate botanical nature helps make exfoliation feel more comfortable and refined, especially for facial skin that can easily become overwhelmed by stronger ingredients.

Finely ground oats were chosen as the primary exfoliating base because of their naturally soft texture. Unlike sharp or jagged exfoliants, oats help lift away surface buildup while leaving the skin feeling smooth and conditioned. When activated with water or oil, they create a creamy, cushioned feel that supports gentle polishing rather than abrasion, making them well-suited for sensitive or reactive skin types.

Bentonite clay was included to bring balance to the formula. This mineral-rich clay helps give the scrub its clean, clarifying finish by absorbing excess surface oil and impurities. When paired with the softness of oats and the gentle nature of elderflowers, it creates an exfoliation ritual that feels grounding, controlled, and effective, ideal for weekly skin renewal without compromise.

Common Customer Questions

Q: How is this scrub different from traditional exfoliants?

A: Many exfoliating products rely on sharp particles or aggressive action. This scrub uses finely ground oats and a dry, activatable format to offer gentle, controlled exfoliation that can be adjusted to suit individual skin needs.

Q: Can this be used on sensitive skin?

A: Yes. The ingredients were chosen specifically for their soft, non-abrasive qualities. We recommend using light pressure and fewer applications per week for sensitive or delicate skin types.

Q: Why is this a dry scrub instead of a pre-mixed formula?

A: A dry formula allows for customization at each use. Customers can adjust the texture and intensity by mixing with water, hydrosol, or oil, creating a more personalized exfoliation experience while maintaining ingredient simplicity.
